

Peter McDonald Architect of Cape Cod
Awarded Best of Houzz 2024

Annual award highlights home remodeling and design professionals with top ratings and most popular designs among the global Houzz community

Eastham, MA February 20, 2024 – Peter McDonald Architect of Eastham, has won a “Best of Houzz” award for Architecture on Houzz®, the leading platform for home remodeling and design. Peter McDonald Architect is a licensed full-service architecture firm with over 25 years of experience on Cape Cod and throughout New England, was chosen by the millions of homeowners that comprise the Houzz community from among more than 3 million active home building, remodeling, and design industry professionals.

“Best of Houzz 2024” badges appear on winners’ profiles as a sign of their commitment to excellence. These badges help the more than 65 million homeowners and home design enthusiasts on Houzz to identify popular and top-rated home professionals for their projects.

“Our work encompasses both new construction projects as well as renovations and additions, specializing in designs that respond to the unique historic and geographic context of the Cape and Islands.”

“The Best of Houzz awards serve as a symbol of trust and validation among homeowners seeking top-notch professionals,” said Liza Hausman, vice president of Industry Marketing for Houzz. “This year’s winners represent some of the most talented and customer-focused professionals in our industry - many of whom are using Houzz Pro to enhance their services - and we are extremely pleased to give them this recognition.”

About Peter McDonald Architect

Our small, dynamic firm of designers blends creativity with knowledge in a way that allows us to provide our clients with designs that meet their specific needs. Founded in 1998, Peter has created a firm with experience in a broad range of project types and styles by bringing together a staff of architects and designers with varied architectural backgrounds and skills. Our firm specializes in several aspects of the residential and commercial design process, including new construction, renovations, and restorations. We also offer services in interior design, landscape design, space planning, and site planning.

Our architectural services encompass the entire design and construction process depending on the needs of our clients, from site selection to initial design sketches, models, and 3-D drawings through to construction documents and construction administration and supervision. We also offer specialty services including energy conservation, historic preservation, and assistance with governing Conservation, Historic, and Planning board approval processes.

Our design process is a development of the relationship between architect, client, and site. More than just a "building" or a "place", the goal of our designers is the creation of a space that is informed by all three. Through intense collaboration, we seek to further our understanding of our client's needs and the unique qualities of the site. We then develop a response to these conditions, considering both the opportunities and the constraints presented by the project to drive and inform our design. The result is one that is distinctly specific to client and place.
